MARJORIE

A New Romantic

Novel by

Justin Huntly McCarthy

The Author of "IF I WERE KING"

LOVE and adventure fill the pages of this beautiful book, which is sure of an enthusiastic reception from a public already familiar with "If I Were King." Mr. McCarthy is master of an exquisite literary style that places his novels in a class by themselves.

A frontispiece in colors by C. Allan Gilbert, a number of full page illustrations, decorated end-papers, etc., make the book as delightful to look at as to read. Size 5½x8 inches. Price $1.50.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

By George Ade

Author of "The Girl Proposition," Etc.

NO living writer could duplicate the work done here by this keen and humorous observer of American life. Among the twenty-six "people you know" are The Patient Toiler, The True Friend, The Self-Made Hezekiah, The Married Couple, The Samaritan, The Work Horse and The Two Young People.

Mr. J. T. McCutcheon and others have contributed over 50 quaint illustrations to the volume. Size 4½x7 inches. Price $1.00.

TO THE BOOKSELLER

¶ Our prediction of a great success for "UNDER THE ROSE," by Frederic S. Isham, author of "The Strollers," has been more than verified. ❀ ❀

¶ "Under the Rose" is assured of a big sale throughout the year, and we advise you to order liberally.

¶ It was published thirty days ago, and the purchases have been liberal, with a constantly increasing demand. A fourth large edition is on the press, and paper ordered for a fifth.

¶ "Under the Rose" is ingenious and different, the style is delightful, every page is alive with cleverness, the ending is most happy.

FROM "UNDER THE ROSE."

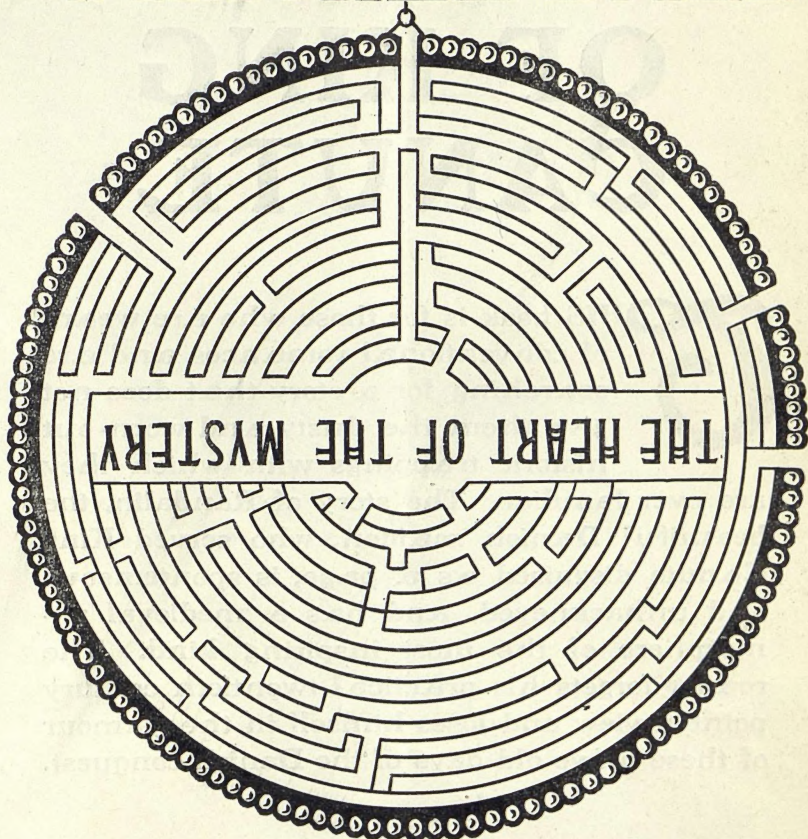

¶ The illustrations, in colors, by Howard Chandler Christy, reproduced in six printings, are thought to be the most elaborate color-work ever used in a novel. :: :: :: ::

BY THE AUTHOR OF THE LEAVENWORTH CASE THE FILIGREE BALL

By ANNA KATHERINE GREEN

"It is a story to be read with a rush, for no one can put it down until he has found the heart of the mystery."

Anna Katherine Green's inventiveness has apparently not been sapped. "The Filigree Ball" has an abundance of interest, and several new inventions, among them the ball itself which is not so much as mentioned until well on toward the unraveling of the mystery.

It is a narrative of murder and mystery conceived and completed in the best vein of the genius that gave "The Leavenworth Case" to unnumbered readers.

COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER.

It is not rash to say that "The Filigree Ball" is easily her best effort since the appearance of "The Leavenworth Case."

NEW YORK SUN.

We can imagine no better companion for a long railroad journey, or when one is tired and in need of the stimulation that mystery stories are particularly calculated to impart.

THE WARD OF KING CANUTE

THIS book is for those who are weary of conventional romances and are searching for a story that does not give them the dusty and worn-out historic trappings with which they are over familiar. The story of Randalin, the beautiful Danish maiden, who served King Canute disguised as a page, is spontaneous and unhackneyed, and has a medieval atmosphere of the most inspiring kind. The reader forgets his practical twentieth century point-of-view and loses himself in the glamour of these brave old days of the Danish conquest.

By OTTILIE A. LILJENCRANTZ

author of "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky"

¶ With six full-page illustrations in color by the Kinneys ¶ Published by

A. C. McClurg & Company, Chicago

¶ It is suggested that dealers send in their orders for this new book promptly, so that it may be on their counters on the day of publication.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. J. CAREY & Co., New York, have issued three new books entitled "Way-Side Rhymes, Epigrams and Parodies," "Smacks and Smiles; or, How to Mix Fancy Drinks," for the vest-pocket, with thumb index; also, Hartman's "Rare-Bits of Humor, and After-Dinner Jokes." These books are attractively gotten up, and are meeting with favor everywhere.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a posthumous novel entitled "Twixt God and Mammon," by Tirebuck Young, with a memoir by Hall Caine; a work entitled "Mosaics, Philosophical, Moral and Horticultural," by Alfred Stimson, who records his impressions and reflections as an observer of nature; also, "The Memoirs and Correspondence of Captain Elers."

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY reports that the first large edition of "The Trail of the Grand Seigneur," was taken up by the trade in advance of publication. This is the more remarkable as the work is Mr. Olin L. Lyman's first story. The publishers offer to send a copy of the book free of charge to any bookseller's assistant who wishes to make himself acquainted with its merits.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish in May a new collection of stories by F. Hopkinson Smith, entitled "The Under Dog." This title, however, is not that of any one story in it, but stands as a symbol for the whole. The tales are all those of people who have been used roughly in the world. "The Crime of Samantha North," "Bud Tilden, Mail Thief," and "Eleven Months and Ten Days," are gathered under the title of "No Respector of Persons;" the other stories are: "Captain Bob of the Screamer," "A Procession of Umbrellas," "Doc' Shipman's Fee," "Plain Finn," "Long Jim," "Compartment No. 4," "Sammy," "Marny's Shadow," "Muffles, Barkup," and "His Last Cent."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish this month two new volumes in The American Sportsman's Library—one on "Water Fowl," by Leonard C. Sandford and T. S. Van Dyke, illustrated by L. A. Fuertes, A. B. Frost and C. L. Bull, and the other on "Big Game Fishes," by Charles F. Holder, with illustrations by Charles F. W. Mielatz; "Athletics and Outdoor Sports for Women," a collection of carefully-written articles on physical training, gymnasium work, swimming, fencing, bowling and other sports by recognized authorities on these subjects; also "The Kempton-Wace Letters," three human documents—those of one woman and two men—which developed discussion of the function and significance of love.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish about April 25, "At the Time Appointed," a new detective story, by A. Maynard Barbour, author of "That Mainwaring Affair," which was one of the successes of two seasons ago. They have just brought out "Glimpses of Colonial Society and Life at Princeton College," being the records and reminiscences of William Patterson as contained in his papers and correspondence, prepared by W. Jay Mills; the first part of Morris's "Elementary History," covering the period between the discovery of America and the beginning of the Revolution; also, the third volume of "Technical Mycology," by Dr. Franz Lafer, the division of the subject especially treated being eumycetic fermentation.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

- This work is the outcome of a series of observations commenced at Leipzig in 1894, continued in Birmingham 1897-1898, and during a two years' stay in Oxford (1898-1899), but not completed until 1902 in Birmingham. For convenience, the physics (including chemistry) and the physiology of protoplasmic movement are arranged in separate chapters, although any such division is entirely arbitrary. Under the first heading those phenomena of protoplasmic movement are discussed which can be directly referred to physical and chemical causes, whereas under "physiology" the writer deals with those "vital" phenomena which cannot as yet be thus resolved.

- Flint, Annie. A girl of ideas. N. Y., Scribner, 1903. [Mr.] c. 6+349 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
A novel which details the business career of a girl whose imagination is her only capital. Publisher after publisher rejects Elinor Day's manuscripts. Her money runs low. Refusing to accept defeat, she opens an office for the selling of ideas to establish writers, her scheme meeting with instant success. Out of her position many complex situations develop.

Gardiner, S: Rawson. History of the Commonwealth and Protectorate, 1649-1656. In 4 v. v. 1, 1649-1650. New ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1903. 20+353 p. maps, D. cl., $2.

The three volumes forming the first edition of Mr. Gardiner's book were published in 1894, 1897, and 1901 respectively. Only the first of these, which reached a third edition in 1901, had the advantage of revision and correction by the author himself. However, Mr. Gardiner appended to the third volume, two pages of "Corrigenda" for v. 2, and also inserted in his preface to v. 2 some additional information which had come too late to be employed in the text of his narrative. These corrections and additions are now incorporated in their proper place, either in the text or the notes.

Gerrare, Wirt. Greater Russia: the Continental empire of the old world. N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. [Ja.] c. 13+337 p. il. folding map, O. cl., **$3 net.

Descriptive of the present condition and prospects of the Russians and of foreign settlers in European Russia and Northern Asia. Treats of recent changes and the causes that have produced them, of the commercial and industrial development of the empire, of the progress made in exploiting its natural resources, of the men who are growing wealthy there and the means they employ, and incidentally of the best openings for foreign enterprise and investment in Russia and Siberia. The fullest accounts are given of the Russian colonies in Siberia, particularly in the far eastern provinces, and of the Russian settlements in Mongolia and Manchuria. Intended to convey an adequate idea of Russia's advance.

- Lyndon, Lamar. Storage battery engineering: a practical treatise for engineers. N.

Y., McGraw Publishing Co., 1903. c. 1902. 3-382 p. il. diagrams, O. cl., $3.

A practical work intended for the electrical engineer who is called on to design and install storage battery equipments, or who has a battery power plant under his care. The first part deals with the storage battery, its construction, action under various conditions, deterioration and the causes of the observed phenomena. The treatment is almost entirely physical, the chemical theory involved being very limited in extent and elementary in character. The second part covers all the apparatus, devices, and methods used in the application and control of batteries. The various systems of boosters are described and an analytical discussion of each type is given. Some of the most important systems are illustrated by practical examples.

Smith, Mrs. Alice Prescott. The legatee. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1903. [Mr.] c. 2+324 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The hero, a southerner, inherits a lumber mill in a Wisconsin town, and with it the legacy of his uncle's relations to the townspeople, which were not always friendly. He finds himself involved in various antagonisms: with the northern sentiment of the people—a lingering effect of the war; with his workmen; and with a group of socialistic and temperance fanatics. There is a strike during which an attempt is made upon the hero's life. The climax is a great forest fire.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 4, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKLOVERS' LIBRARY.

It is now something more than three years since an ingenious modification of the old circulating library idea was initiated as a stock enterprise under the name of The Booklovers' Library. The first library was opened in Philadelphia in March, 1900, and its recent circulars state that it has now libraries in fifty American cities, besides two in Canada and one in London; about 250 delivery stations; over 4000 delivery centers, and over 2000 employees. It claims to have spent more than $1,250,000 in organization, equipment, and advertising, and to circulate ten million books a year. Its remarkable organization, the extremely tasteful and attractive character of its library shops in many cities, coupled with an enterprising delivery service, and the wonderful cleverness of its polychrome advertising, lavishly distributed among the most popular periodicals, show the skilful hand of a promoter of remarkable capacity.

The first scheme was made attractive by an agreement to furnish subscribers an absolutely fresh book, which involved enormous expenditure, and which has probably been the reason for modifying the original plan by the addition of the so-called Tabard Inn Library, which does not include this feature. To take the place of this attraction it was announced that subscribers to the Tabard Inn Library might bring to it any acceptable volume costing over a dollar, recently purchased in a bookstore, and on surrendering it to the library with a tee of ten cents might borrow another book in its place, exchanging this so long as he continued to pay his subscription, a feature proving, on easy analysis, to be a clever method of extending the resources of the library at the expense of the subscribers. The Booklovers' Library charged an annual fee of $5 for one, $10 for three books, and so on, which were to be fresh copies; the Tabard Inn scheme makes a life membership charge of $5, an annual membership charge of $1.50, and a charge of 5 cents for each book taken out, the equivalent of the entire weekly charge of the old-fashioned circulating libraries. A bookselling business has been founded, under the name of "The Philadelphia Book Store," to obtain for the library indirectly the advantage of trade discounts, and endeavors have been made to market disused books among public libraries and other institutions by selling them at large discounts. A Medical Library for physicians, a Rugby Library for boys and girls, and a Temple Library for Sunday-schools have been started on parallel lines with the Tabard Inn. The Booklovers' Magazine is published by a separate corporation, "The Library Publishing Company," in which $100,000 preferred stock is said to have been immediately subscribed by the Booklovers' Library shareholders at par.

The financial character of this enterprise has lately been a subject of question, and some attention has been given to it by Wall Street journals. The corporation was originally organized under the laws of New Jersey, in June, 1900, with $600,000 capitalization, which has since been advanced to $2,600,000. It is stated that $228,160 stock was originally subscribed; $369,690 sold to library members in April, 1901; $538,550 in November, 1901; and $476,320 in May, 1902; making total stock sold previous to 1903, $1,612,720. The circular of the concern states that 10 per cent. annual dividend has been paid quarterly from August 1, 1900, and that there are 3000 shareholders. Circulars inviting investment give none of the usual information required by investors, but this does not seem to have been necessary to obtain funds. During the present year invitations to take stock have been widely distributed, usually in the shape of a card from the treasurer, accompanied by ingenious and inviting circulars and the complimentary statement that the president offers you the special privilege of subscribing to this stock. The Outlook for April 4 contains one of these circulars in its advertising pages, in which it is stated that $1,900,000 stock is now taken up, that 20,000 shares more are now offered the public at $10 and that on May 15 the remaining 50,000 shares will be offered at $12 per share. It has been issued and sold at $10 per share, although it is stated that it has been quoted in the Philadelphia market at from $7.50 to $9 per share. No statement as to expenses, liabilities, etc., seems to have been published; and the United States Investor, in answering a recent query, summed up the situation by saying: "It is quite a mystery to a good many how any profit can be made by the company when such a large expense is incurred in carrying out their first-class and original ideas in serving their subscribers."

The practical question involved is whether the company is doing a sound business or exploiting stock, and whether dividends come from profits, or from the money furnished by new investors. On this question the future will shed light.

THE NEW JOBBING RULE FAVORED BY THE AMERICAN BOOK- SELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE Secretary of the American Booksellers' Association in his April report comments on the new jobbing rule adopted by the American Publishers' Association, as follows:

"Under the new reform resolution adopted by the Publishers' Association, it will become possible to maintain at least one general wholesale and retail bookstore in every city, town and populous community throughout the country, where a fair supply of the new copyrighted and popular-selling books, as well as the staple selling standard books and sets of books can be purchased at wholesale by local retail dealers, without incurring the heavy cost of transportation charges from distant cities.

"It cannot be doubted that a faithful observance of this new resolution will rapidly rehabilitate the general book trade, so that it will soon be possible for retail purchasers of books to examine what is new at their own convenience in local book shops.

"Under recent conditions which were rapidly drifting from bad to worse, large local booksellers had discontinued their wholesale departments; local jobbers had taken their men off the road and abandoned the business, and the book jobbing business was rapidly being centered in the hands of two or three large general jobbers, each of whom has recently been striving with the other for the mastery and monopoly of the whole book jobbing business; but an analysis of their expense accounts in handling their book departments must have shown a loss under recent conditions, and it is only reasonable to suppose that the master who gained a monopoly of the general distribution of books, in the end, would have exacted such conditions as would have compelled publishers and booksellers to reimburse him for the money sacrificed in his war for supremacy.

"The whole book trade is to be congratulated that the Board of Managers of the Publishers' Association have had the foresight and wisdom to avert such a calamity."

EARLY WORLD-MAPS ON EXHIBITION IN THE LENOX LIBRARY.

AN unusual opportunity is afforded for the examination of great cartographical monuments by a visit to the Lenox Library Building, 890 Fifth Avenue, New York City, where about eighty separate world-maps have been very recently placed on exhibition for free public view. They demonstrate the evolution of geographical ideas from Homer (about B.C. 900) to A.D. 1600. For the convenience of study the maps have been displayed in two groups, namely, Pre-Columbian and Post-Columbian. As some of the maps are of huge size, they are hung on the walls in easy relation to one another, while the smaller exemplars fill fifteen flat or upright showcases.

The earliest maps are modern reconstructions of the world according to Homer, Hecataeus, Herodotus, Eratosthenes, Strabo, Pomponius Mela and Ptolemy. The very singular ideas which prevailed in Europe during the Middle Ages are amply set forth, especially by maps of the Cosmas type.

Passing to the second half of the fifteenth century, that era when new continents were discovered, we find such maps as the Borgian map, about 1450, Fra Mauro's, 1457, Ptolemy atlases of 1478 and 1482, and projections of Martin Behaim's Globe, 1492.

The Post-Columbian display is of singular importance to cartographers. It includes several unique original maps, owned by the library, as well as some reproductions, loaned by Prof. Edward L. Stevenson of Rutgers College, which have never been seen in full, apart from the originals in Europe. The Cantino map of 1502, for example, has never been reproduced in its entirety, but in this exhibition the whole of it is shown in large photographic plates. The same is true of the map of Nicolay de Canerio, also about 1502, and what cartographers know as Kunstmann No. 2, about 1503. There are many more fac-similes like the Juan de la Cosa map (1500) and the Sebastian Cabot map (1544) but they cannot be given space here.

The originals of greatest interest are, the earliest engraved map of the world, 1508; the original Hunt-Lenox Globe, about 1510, supposed to be the earliest Post-Columbian globe which is extant, unless rivalled by the lately discovered Globus Jagellonicus; the unique Boulenger or Tross Gore map, about 1514; the unique so-called Schoener Gore map, about 1524, which shows the track of the first circumnavigation of the world by Magellan; the earliest world map by Mercator, 1538, one of two known copies, both of which are in New York City; and finally the Wright map of 1600, sometimes called the Hakluyt map, because it was made to accompany some copies of his Voyages, 1599-1600.

The exhibition, which affords an unusual opportunity for comparative study, is to be continued for some short time, and is here commended as worthy of attention by the librarian and bookman, quite as much as by the more interested cartographer. It is not likely that another such comprehensive collection of rare maps will soon again be put on public exhibition.

STOKES WINS IN MAUDE ADAMS CALENDAR SUIT.

JUSTICE BISCHOFF, of the Supreme Court, on March 27, rendered a decision in favor of Frederick A. Stokes Company in the suit brought by Charles Frohman over a "Maude Adams Calendar." The decision is particularly gratifying inasmuch as the Stokes Company has been grossly misrepresented in the matter.

The innocent cause of the whole trouble seems to have been a collection of uncopyrighted illustrations brought together very largely with the aid of Maude Adams' mother to illustrate the volume on "Maude Adams," by Acton Davies, brought out by the Stokes Company two years ago. Last season these illustrations were utilized in preparing a "Maude Adams Calendar," one of the 150 or 200 calendars marketed by firm. The Stokes Company knew nothing of any other "Maude Adams Calendar" when it issued its own. The calendar was sold on its own merits, and the stock had been practically exhausted when, without warning, papers were served on the Stokes Company to show cause why they should not be enjoined from selling the calendar, etc.

Representations having been made by the plaintiff, Frohman, that the matter was one of great urgency, the complaint was issued on a Friday and made answerable the following Tuesday. In the complaint unsupported testimony was brought forward alleging that the Stokes Company had misrepresented their calendar to be the same as that brought out by Frohman, all of which was unqualifiedly denied by the Stokes Company, who were supported in their statements by a number of the largest retail houses in New York City.

That the court accepted the statements of the Frederick A. Stokes Company, and those of the firms who appeared for them, without question appears from the following decision:

BISCHOFF, J.: The plaintiff is interested in the publication of a calendar containing pictures of Miss Maude Adams, an actress, whose popularity is concededly extensive, and this action is brought to enjoin the defendant's publication of a "Maude Adams Calendar," likewise containing pictures of Maude Adams in selected roles. It appears that these pictures are reproductions of uncopyrighted photographs, and the question presented is whether the defendant's act in placing its calendar on sale amounts to an unfair trade competition.

An examination of the calendar published at the instance of the respective parties discloses a great dissimilarity in their make-up and title, and in the choice of the illustrations used. There is no apparent attempt to deceive intending purchasers, and, upon the affidavits presented, it would appear that there has been no deception. Therefore, unless it be held that the plaintiff's right to vend a calendar containing photographs of Miss Maude Adams is exclusive, this motion must fail.

These photographs have been placed on sale generally for any lawful purpose to which the purchasers may devote them. Miss Adams has retained no right to herself to their exclusive use as illustrations of a calendar, and can give no exclusive right to the plaintiff. The use of her name in connection with her photographs does not relate to the good will of any established business of her own, so understood, in the publication of photographs, and, within the authorities, she cannot restrict the use of her name, for this purpose, to persons whom she may designate (see Hegeman v. Hegeman, 8 Daly, 1; Taege v. Le Boutillier, 5 Misc., 78).

Motion for injunction denied with $10 costs.

THE UNITED DEALERS' NEWS COMPANY.

At the twentieth annual convention of the National Association of Retail Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers, held in August, 1902, a committee was appointed to devise ways and means, in fact, was given full powers, to form a news company. The result is the formation of The United Dealers' News Company which began business this week at 29 New Chambers Street, New York. According to a prospectus published by the company the United Dealers' News Company, as its name implies, "is composed of associated dealers who are banded together for a common cause, and that means for mutual aid and for the good and welfare of the trade in general. In order to be consistent with these aims, the news company was formed by which the trade can deal direct with publisher, and thereby gain not only a pro rata share of the earnings the 'agent' now receives, but also to protect retail dealers against a further reduction of profits and a curtailing of privileges which the 'agent' induces publishers to believe are satisfactory to the trade, and which work contrary to the best interests of all concerned. By the retail dealers owning and operating their own news company, this much is positively guaranteed: That they will not be driven out of business; that they will not suffer the tax of unnecessary and excessive delivery or freight charges; that profits will be increased instead of reduced; that no advantage will be taken of fractions (i.e., two periodicals at  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent counts  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent, and two at  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent counts 1 cent); that all bills will be written in readable English; that you will be treated with civility; that you will receive correct credit for returns; that your orders will be delivered promptly. These and many more benefits the trade will receive from a news company owned and managed by the organized retail newsdealers of the United States of America and Canada. It will interest dealers to know that the certificate of incorporation granted to the United Dealers' News Co., under 'The Business Corporations Law act of this [New York] State, gives the shareholders many ways of earning dividends. For instance: The company can carry on in any part of the world as principals, agents or commission merchants, to collect and deliver, to buy and sell at wholesale, newspapers, periodicals, magazines, engravings, books, maps, stationery, toys, cigars, tobacco and other smokers' articles, and all such other goods and merchandise as may be necessary for the legal conduct of their business.

"The duration of this company shall be forever. Five thousand dollars in cash will always remain on deposit in a safe depository as security.

"Branches will be established everywhere, or as soon as the business warrants it. . . .

"The capital stock of $30,000 is divided into 3000 shares at $10 a share, which are sold exclusively and without exception to retail newsdealers, who can buy from one to twenty shares, providing application for shares is made before all are sold. Shares are non-assessable when fully paid.

"The next regular meeting of the stockholders will be held the first Tuesday in May.

"The annual meeting will be held on the 6th day of January of each year for general business and election of officers.

"The following are the board of directors elected for the year 1903: President, T. F. Martin; vice-president, A. Lipman; treasurer, M. Libien; secretary, M. E. Golde; E. Mur, M. G. Duhon, J. R. Rosenthal, E. P. Walkup, I. Wolfe, S. Kalotkin, and N. Socal, directors."

The United Dealers' News Company have their quarters in a basement. Its officers, notwithstanding the thinly-veiled allusions in the prospectus to the "agent" and his doings, protest that they are not attempting to fight any established news company, but simply to assist the newsdealer to do business on a more profitable basis than has heretofore been possible through the distributing agents now in business.

PROPRIETARY RIGHTS IN MUSICAL PRODUCTIONS.

THE announcement that Mr. Conried, the new manager of the New York Metropolitan Opera House, intends to produce Wagner's "Parsifal," notwithstanding the protest of Mme. Wagner, has brought out several curious facts concerning proprietary rights in musical productions. The question of copyright, we understand, does not enter into the question of reproducing "Parsifal."

The international copyright agreement was made in 1891 and all these works were published long before that. The law is not retroactive and therefore cannot apply to them. But the question of proprietary rights enters into the matter. The vocal score is published and sold to the general public, but it carries no performing rights with it. This was shown in the matter of Gounod's "Redemption," which was prepared for performance in Boston from the vocal score, a new orchestral arrangement being made. The representatives of Gounod's publishers on this side of the ocean had no difficulty in securing an injunction.

"The reason is," according to a music publisher who was interviewed by the New York Sun, "that our courts have decided that the printing of the orchestra score and parts does not constitute publication in the sense of carrying with it performing rights, if it is stipulated on the publication that such rights are reserved. Do you know that if we wished we could charge a fee for every performance of one of our songs? We could, but we would not be so foolish. But the Philharmonic Society pays the performing fee for every performance of Richard Strauss's later works, because he has put the necessary proviso on the score. Both our law and the German law recognize that proviso, and the Philharmonic's action will make a good precedent. If the Wagner heirs have not neglected to put that proviso on the score of 'Parsifal' I think they can make trouble for Mr. Conried."

Reference to two scores of "Parsifal" showed that on the title-page and again across the corner of the first page of the music was stamped with a rubber stencil this legend: "Diese Partitur (No. 97) darf nicht zu öffentlichen Aufführungen benutzt werden." Which simply means: "This score (No. 97) must not be used for public performance." On the title-page is also found the formula in laconic English: "Performing rights reserved." These same clauses are also published on the title-page of the miniature score in three volumes. It is not found on the Kleinmichel piano score, which could not be protected under proprietary laws. Wagner sold the score of "Parsifal" to B. Schott & Sons of Mayence for $15,000. They also bought "Der Ring des Nibelungen" for $10,000. The latter has been played here often without any attempt at interference. The question now arises whether "Parsifal" can be protected. It may be said that music publishers believe that it can. But the question is one which has never been thoroughly tested.

BILL FOR UNIFORM TEXT-BOOKS IN NEW YORK.

SENATOR MALBY introduced a bill in the New York State Legislature, on March 20, with the title, "An act to provide for the adoption of uniform text-books for use in the public schools in counties, and creating county councils of education." The bill says there shall be in each county, except the counties included in the City of New York, a county council of education, consisting of certain county officers, and that this council shall designate text-books in a uniform series to be used exclusively in all the public schools of the county, not including the public schools within a city in such county, or the academic or high school departments of the several union free schools included therein.

BLAKE'S ILLUSTRATIONS BRING $28,000.

WILLIAM BLAKE'S "Illustrations of the Book of Job" was sold at auction in London, on March 30, for $28,000. The volume, which was published in 1825, contains the forty-three original proof impressions of engravings and original designs in colors. The bidding started at $7500, and rose by leaps to the sensational bid at which the book was knocked down to a dealer.

Another of Blake's works fetched $9800, and sixteen others of his works were sold for minor prices. They were all the property of the Earl of Crewe.

BANGS &amp; CO. GO OUT OF BUSINESS.

AN old landmark of the book business is about to disappear in the withdrawal of the old book auction firm of Bangs & Co. Owing to continued ill health, Fletcher H. Bangs, the senior of the concern, has thought it best to retire from business, and has sold the interests of the concern to John Anderson, Jr. The sales previously arranged will be carried out and then the house that has been identified with some of the greatest book sales in this country, famous for the gatherings of book lovers and men of letters, will be a thing of the past. The business will be continued under the name of Mr. Anderson.

The house of Bangs & Co. was started in 1829 by Lemuel Bangs. He was the junior member of the firm of McElrath & Bangs, publishers and booksellers, at 85 Chatham Square. Later the business was conducted at 196 Broadway, under the name of Bangs, Richards & Platt. Subsequently the business was removed to 204 Broadway. In 1849 the firm became Bangs, Platt & Co. The name was changed again in 1852 to Bangs, Brother & Co., the place of business being at 13 Park Row. The next change was in 1858, when the firm was reorganized under the title of Bangs (E. K.), Merwin & Co. In 1876 the name was once more changed to Bangs (F. H.) & Co. The business was moved to Broadway and Fourth Street. Three years later it was moved to 736 Broadway. In 1896 Bangs & Co. moved to Fifth Avenue and Seventeenth Street. Fletcher H. Bangs, the principal member of the retiring firm, became connected with it in December, 1876. Mr. Merwin, the auctioneer, is the son of the member of the old firm in which his father's name was included.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LOOK OUT FOR A. W. MORRISS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We have been greatly annoyed by a man giving his name as A. W. Morriss, who has been soliciting orders for medical books from physicians in New England and Pennsylvania in our name. He represents himself to be our agent, effects exchanges by taking old books with him and orders for new ones. We have been trying to locate him and to warn the medical profession against him through a medical journal.

If he makes himself known to any bookseller we shall be grateful for immediate information of his whereabouts.

LYON, KYMER & PALMER CO.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 20, 1903.

OBITUARY NOTES.

EBENEZER BUTTERICK, the originator of the tissue paper dress pattern and the founder of the Butterick Company, died on March 31 in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Butterick was born at Stirling, Mass., in 1829, and became a tailor. In 1859 he started in business for himself at Fitchburg, Mass., and soon after began experimenting in paper pattern making. In 1864 he came to New York. He retired from active business in 1881, and four years ago turned over all his interest in the firm to the sons of his partner, J. W. Wilder.

WILLIAM VINCENT MCKEAN, chief editorial writer of the Philadelphia Inquirer during the Civil War, and for more than twenty years editor-in-chief of the Public Ledger, died on March 29, at Philadelphia, where he was born December 3, 1819. He was editor of the National Almanac Record for 1864, published in Philadelphia, London and Paris. He was also the author of the report favoring a money order system for the United States in 1858, of "What the Navy Did During the War," and of "General McClellan's Campaign."

JOSEPH J ENGLISH, for many years connected with the firm of Randolph & English, of Richmond, Va., died at Groochland, Va., aged seventy-two years. Mr. English was first in the bindery business on his own account, and then joined forces with J. W. Randolph, publisher and bookseller. He has not been in business for a number of years. His son, Jack English, formerly connected with his father's firm and afterwards with J. W. Randolph & Co., has been for some time connected with the Bell Book and Stationery Company, of Richmond.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Edward F. Lienert has again assumed ownership of the Buffalo Book Exchange at 50 Seneca Street. Mr. Lienert makes paper novels a specialty and also keeps a fine line of stationery and blank books.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Robert Clarke Co. has established itself in offices at 18 East Fourth Street, nearly opposite the old store, where they will be prepared, as heretofore, to receive and supply orders for all American books, and to import, by post or in their semi-monthly parcels, books from London, Paris, and Leipzig.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA.—The James-Shepherd Company, organized March 7, expects to open up a handsome bookstore about May 1 in the new Waldo. The company's store will be fitted with every modern convenience and will in every way be in keeping with the general magnificence of the Waldo, which is reputed to cost $200,000. The concern is new to Clarksburg, but the members composing the firm are not new to the book and stationery business. E. D. Shepherd, who is president of the company, has been associated for the past eleven years with the Caldwell-Sites Company, of Staunton, Va., and E. W. James, who is secretary and treasurer, has been bookkeeper for the same concern for three years.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—E. N. Maxwell, books, has assigned.

NEW YORK CITY.—Fox, Duffield & Company is the name of a newly incorporated firm of publishers, who will engage in a general publishing business at 36 East Twenty-first Street. The heads of the firm are young men, though long identified with their calling. Mr. Rector K. Fox, the brother of the novelist, John Fox, jr., has been for nearly seven years in the publishing house of R. H. Russell, and before that he was occupied for several years with newspaper work. Mr. Pitts Duffield has been in the employ of Charles Scribner's Sons for the past five years. He is the son of Gen. Henry M. Duffield, of Detroit. Both Mr. Duffield and Mr. Fox are Harvard graduates.

RACINE, WIS.—William J. Hay has succeeded Bullock & Peat, booksellers.

PORTLAND, ME.—Brickett & Rand have succeeded R. A. Bragg, bookseller.

STAMFORD, CONN.—A. Lyman is advertising to sell his bookstore.

ST. ALBANS, VT.—Orrin T. Swett has opened a bookstore in the Barnes Building, on Lake Street.

SYDNEY MINES, R. I.—C. W. Lovett has opened a branch bookstore here.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

NORMAN HAPGOOD, whose short lives of Washington and Lincoln were something new in biographical writing, is to assume editorial control over Collier's Weekly.

The Reader, the first number of which was published last November, has suspended publication. It was begun under the editorship of Herbert Copeland, formerly of Copeland & Day, who was succeeded by Miss A. Lenalie. The publisher was Mitchell Kennerley, at one time American representative of John Lane.

Everybody's Magazine has been sold by John Wanamaker to the Ridgway & Thayer Company. The property of the magazine and the subscription lists will be passed over to the new publishers on April 15, and the June number will bear their imprint. Erman J. Ridgway, the senior of the new company, has been for several years connected with Frank A. Munsey. He is at present the Vice-President of the Frank A. Munsey Company. Adams Thayer is a Director of the Butterick Publishing Company, publisher of The Delineator and other fashion magazines. He was formerly connected with The Ladies' Home Journal. The other member of the corporation, Mr. Wilder, is President of the Butterick Publishing Company.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BLOWITZ's memoirs will be published in this country by Doubleday, Page & Co.

GODFREY A. S. WIENERS, at the Sign of the Lark, New York, has just brought out Albert E. Gallatin's monograph on "Aubrey Beardsley's Art."

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish shortly a new work on the history of the "Non-jurors," giving a full account of the chief actors in that memorable episode in the life of the English Church.

BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just ready a handsome work of interest to students and lovers of art as well as to amateur photographers, entitled "Pictorial Composition and the Critical Judgment of Pictures," by H. R. Poore. The volume is very fully illustrated.

"LADY ROSE'S DAUGHTER" is to be dramatized by George Fleming and produced by Frohman in September. George Fleming is the pen-name of Miss Constance Fletcher, who dramatized "The Light that Failed," a recent London success.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just issued "Othello," the sixth volume in the edition of Shakespeare's works brought out under the editorial supervision of Professor Edward Dowden. The volume has been annotated by H. C. Hart, who has also written an introduction to the play.

RICHARD WYNKOOP, 37 Van Buren Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has published a work entitled "Schuremans of New York," giving an account of Harmen Schuerman; of Manhattan Island in 1649, and his descendants known as Harmenszens, Schuurmans, Schuremans, and Schurmans, of which family Dr. Jacob G. Schureman, president of Cornell University, is a member.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co., a new firm of publishers who have just opened up at 36 East Twenty-first Street, New York, will launch two books this spring, namely, "The Autobiography of a Thief," a genuine human document recorded by Hutchins Hapgood; and

"Everyman," the fifteenth century morality play, (presented this winter,) with the old woodcuts reproduced from the first illustrated mediæval edition of the play.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce a series of views of New York City, etched by the veteran etcher, S. Hollyer. This will consist of thirty-six plates, giving views of buildings and places of especial interest, most of which have long since passed away. They will also publish for The Gilliss Press of New York a limited edition of "The Story of a Motto and a Mark, being a brief sketch of a few printers' marks" and containing the facts concerning the 'mark' of the Gilliss Press," by Walter Gilliss.

DREXEL BIDDLE, Philadelphia, will publish on April 15 a book on "How to Play Baseball," by Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American League, 1902. Instructions for playing every position in the game are given minutely. "Rube" Waddell, the noted pitcher, has written a special article on the art of pitching, and has posed specially for a series of pictures showing how to hold the ball in order to throw the different curves, drops, etc.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just brought out a work that will have more than passing interest because of the sensational death of its hero, namely, "With Macdonald in Uganda," by Major Herbert Austin, a member of the expedition in the Uganda Protectorate against the mutiny of the Soudanese troops. They will publish shortly the "War Journals" of Count von Blumenthal, Prussian Field Marshal, with special reference to the Austrian and French campaigns; also, a new edition of "The Love of an Uncrowned Queen," which will contain much new fresh information.

THE most sensational contest during the sale of the famous library of Sir Thomas Carmichael at Sotheby's last week, was for the first edition of the "Inferno" containing Landio's commentaries and nineteen famous designs for the "Inferno" by Sandro Botticelli. Mr. Quaritch, secured the treasure for exactly $5000. There were other famous specimens of the "Inferno," notably the Sunderland copy, beautifully illuminated, bound in old English blue morocco and dated 1472, which went for $1250, while another beautifully illuminated copy of the "Inferno," the value of which was increased by some contemporary notes on the margins, went for $1200.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. announce a new volume entitled "The Autobiography of a Beggar," prefaced by some account of the humorous adventures and incidents related in the Beggars' Club." It is by I. K. Friedman, of Chicago, author of "The Lucky Number," "Poor People" and "By Bread Alone." This book opens an entirely new vein in American humor and discloses, on the part of its writer, a rare insight into the character of a most curious class in American life and in an intimate acquaintance with its amusing and picturesque types. Several of the chapters which make up the volume attracted wide and favorable attention in serial publication in the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia, where part of them appeared under the title of the volume and another part under the title of "The Beggars' Club."

THOMAS LEWIS HAINES, the Prohibition candidate for Mayor of Chicago, is no stranger to the booktrade, having for twenty-one years been a successful member of the bookselling fraternity. Born in Snyder County, Pa., in 1844, he was brought up in Southern Michigan where his father had a farm. In 1862 he enlisted in the 12th Michigan Infantry and served until the close of the war when he entered Northwestern College. In 1872 he went to Chicago where he engaged in the book business. For a number of years he owned a half interest in the Western Publishing House, and since 1888 he has been the treasurer of the Central School Supply House. He wrote a book on "Worth and Wealth" that has had a large circulation, and with L. W. Yaggy, who was his partner at the time, he wrote "The Royal Path of Life," the sales of which have run beyond a million copies.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish shortly "Deep Sea Vagabonds," by Albert Sonnichsen, who has something to say about the men who sail upon the sea rather than about the sea itself. A large proportion of the tale deals with the jackies ashore—in their boarding houses, and strange waterfront haunts—and in writing this part of the sailor's life, the author is in an almost unworked field. Mr. Sonnichsen signs himself "Able Seaman," but he has been almost everything that a man can be on either sailing or steaming vessel, and his story has a particular vividness because it is the chronicle of his own varied and highly picturesque experiences in bottoms under every flag from the Turk's to the King of England's. Mr. Sonnichsen's life as a sailor was unusually adventurous. He is a born story-teller, with a faculty for "yarning" sharpened by long practice in the "fo'c'sle," and the story of the exciting things which befell him in his many voyages loses none of its vividness in his telling of it.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just published a double section of the Oxford English Dictionary, containing the words from Onomastical to Outing, 3885 in all, with 13,253 illustrative quotations. Dr. Murray points out that out-verbs as a class were apparently eschewed by Shakespeare's contemporary, Bacon, and, he says, "it is noteworthy that while Shakespeare uses 54 of these verbs, for 38 of which he is our first, and for nine of them our only, authority, we cite Bacon only for two, one of which, indeed, outshoot, had, in those days of archery, been in common use for more than seventy years. The contrast between the language of Bacon and that of Shakespeare in this respect is the more striking seeing that other contemporary authors, e.g., Ben Jonson, used these out-verbs almost as freely as Shakespeare himself, without, however, yielding anything like the same number of first instances." The total number of words in the dictionary, including the forthcoming double section, is so far no fewer than 165,654.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY, Princeton, N. J., will publish at once the first volume of "The Poems of Philip Freneau, Poet of the American Revolution," edited for the Princeton Historical Association by Fred Lewis Pattee, of the Pennsylvania State College, author of "A History of American Literature," etc. With the exception of the collection published by E. A. Duyckinck in 1865, Freneau's writings have, until the present edition, remained precisely where the poet left them—many in unique editions and all of them difficult of access except in a few of the larger libraries. The present edition, which will be in three volumes, will present for the first time a trustworthy account of the poet's life and influence, as far as it is possible to know and estimate them, and practically a complete collection of his poems. The editor has endeavored not only to rescue every poem that is in any way significant, but to arrange these poems as far as possible in the order of their composition, or in the order in which they first appeared in print—furnishing practically an autobiography of the author, and a commentary upon the history of a highly important era in the history of our country.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation the following new fiction: "The Siege of Youth," by Frances Charles, author of "In the Country God Forgot;" "A Detached Pirate," a society novel, by Helen Milcete, with four plates in color by I. H. Caliga; "Barbara, a Woman of the West," by John H. Whitson; "A Rose of Normandy," a romance of France and Canada in the time of Louis XIV., by William R. A. Wilson; "Sarah Tuldou," the dramatic story of an English peasant girl, by Orme Agnus, author of "Love in Our Village" and "Jan Oxber;" also "The Wars of Peace," a stirring industrial novel, by A. F. Wilson. They also announce the new national edition of Daniel Webster's works, the first volume of which is about ready; a new tourists' edition of "In and Around the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River of Arizona," by George Wharton James; "Written in Florence," the last verses of Hugh McCulloch, author of "The Quest of Heracles;" "Life in a New England Town, 1787-1788," a diary of John Quincy Adams while a student in the office of Theophilus Parsons, at Newburyport, edited by Charles Francis Adams; a new and enlarged edition of "Salads, Sandwiches and Chafing-Dish Dainties," by Janet MacKenzie Hill; and "Kennel Diseases," by "Ashmont," author of "Kennel Secrets."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will bring out in the Story of the Nations Series a work, in two volumes, on "The South American Republic," by Thomas C. Dawson, secretary of the United States legation to Brazil, who, besides his residence in Brazil, has travelled widely through South America and has had special opportunities for collecting material for his work, which will be amply and attractively illustrated from photographs. "Danish Life," by J. Brochner, will be a new volume in Our European Neighbor Series. It will surprise many to learn of the great progress the Danes have made not only in the various branches of agriculture, but also in art and literature. They have also in press a new philosophical work entitled "Divinity and Man, Interpretation of Spiritual Law in its Relation to Mundane Phenomena and to the Ruling Incentives and Moral Duties of Man, together with an Allegory Dealing with Cosmic Evolution and Certain Social and Religious Problems," by W. K. Roberts, who has long been a resident of Hankow, China, where he is an official in the imperial customs. Mr. Roberts's life in the East has evidently influenced him toward certain Buddhist theories, especially in regard to the common source and end of finite life. Besides much that is theoretical, this book contains a searching arraignment of the methods and morals of modern Christian civilization.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation a work on the "Impeachment and Trial of Andrew Johnson, Seventeenth President of the United States," by David M. De Witt, who illustrates many facts relating to the reconstruction period that have never before been clear to a large number of people; "Two Centuries of American Costume in America," by Mrs. Alice Morse Earle, which will cover the subject from the time of Sir Walter Raleigh to 1824, with many illustrations in color, etc.; "Biographical Sketches," by James Bryce, the author of "The American Commonwealth," who treats of such celebrities as Gladstone, Lord Beaconsfield, J. R. Green, E. A. Freeman, Dean Stanley, Cardinal Manning and others, with whom Mr. Bryce has been personally acquainted; "Theory and Practice in Boys' Self-Governing Clubs," by Winifred Buck, which should prove of no little importance from a philanthropical standpoint and of special interest to organizers of young men's clubs; a new story by B. K. Benson, entitled "Old Squire," which deals with the war of the Rebellion in the United States, 1860-1865; "Ronald Carnaquay, a Commercial Clergyman," by Bradley Gilman, already described in these columns; and "McTodd," a new story by Cutcliffe Hyne, author of "The Adventures of Captain Kettle." They also announce a series of Little Novels by Favorite Authors, in which series "Man Overboard," by F. Marion Crawford; "Mr. Keegan's Elopement," by Winston Churchill; "Mrs. Pendleton's Four-in-Hand," by Gertrude Atherton, and "Philosophy Four," by Owen Wister, are the first volumes, which will be ready sometime during the spring. Each volume will contain a biography of the author of the book, and will have illustrations.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line, for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Ready About April 25 AT THE TIME APPOINTED

By the author of "THAT MAINWARING AFFAIR"

"Hand over that money, young man, and no fuss about it, either!"

With a spring, as sudden and noiseless as a panther's, Whitcomb grappled with the man, knocking the revolver from his hand upon the bed. A quick, desperate, silent struggle followed. Whitcomb suddenly reached for the revolver; as he did so Darrell saw a flash of steel in the dim light, and the next instant his friend sank, limp and motionless, upon the bed.

"Fool!" he heard the man mutter, with an oath.

An involuntary groan escaped from Darrell's lips. Slight as was the sound, the man heard it and turned, facing him; the latter was screened by the curtains, and the man, seeing no one, returned to his work, but that brief glance had revealed enough to Darrell that he knew he could henceforth identify the murderer among a thousand. In the struggle the mask had been partially pushed aside, exposing a portion of the man's face. A scar of peculiar shape showed white against the olive skin, close to the curling black hair.
